JR STRENGTH & FITNESS

THE TRAINING PROGRESS AUDIT

BEFORE YOU CHANGE THE PLAN.

Progress slowed, and the first instinct is a new program. Start here instead: what you expected, what you actually did, and what happened. Grab your training log and a pen.

FROM THE FLOOR

JR ROMERO, CSCS

Founder, JR Strength and Fitness
Director of Personal Training,
Timberhill Athletic Club
Director of Performance,
G3 Sports & Fitness

20,000 HOURS

Coaching on the floor, 10+ years

01 THE GOAL
02 THE RECORD
03 THE DIRECTION
04 THE RESPONSE
05 NEXT STEP
06 NEXT REVIEW

01 / THE GOAL

WHAT WAS SUPPOSED TO CHANGE?

Most people I sit down with want a new program before they can tell me what the old one was for. Name the result first. If you can't describe it yet, that's your first job, and it's a useful one.

I WANT MY TRAINING TO HELP ME _____

WHAT PROGRESS WOULD LOOK LIKE seen or measured

WHAT I'M TRACKING RIGHT NOW

WHERE I STARTED

THE TIMELINE I EXPECTED and who set it

This workbook organizes a conversation about your training. It doesn't diagnose a plateau or clear you to train. If pain or a health concern is part of the picture, talk to a qualified professional before you use any of this.

02 / THE RECORD

WHAT DID YOU ACTUALLY DO?

A plan written for three sessions a week can't be judged on one. Pick a stretch you remember well. Your log or calendar beats memory every time.

DATES I'M REVIEWING	SESSIONS PLANNED	COMPLETED	CUT SHORT OR CHANGED

THE MAIN REASON WORK GOT MISSED OR CHANGED

WHAT MADE THE SESSIONS I DID FINISH EASIER TO GET TO?

WRITE IT IN ONE LINE

THE BIGGEST GAP BETWEEN MY PLAN AND MY ACTUAL WEEK WAS

This isn't a grade on your discipline. If the same appointment keeps getting missed, the schedule needs the work, not you.

03 / THE DIRECTION

DO YOU KNOW WHAT COMES NEXT?

Mark each line. There's no total. One unclear answer is enough to make your next session better, so start with the one that affects it most.

		CLEAR	ASK	N/A
01	I know what this training phase is for.	☐	☐	☐
02	I know which work matters most in each session.	☐	☐	☐
03	I know what to write down after I train.	☐	☐	☐
04	I know how the plan decides when to progress.	☐	☐	☐
05	I know what to do when I miss a session.	☐	☐	☐
06	I know when the plan gets reviewed.	☐	☐	☐

THE QUESTION I NEED ANSWERED FIRST bring it to your coach, or to your own next review

04 / THE RESPONSE

WHAT ACTUALLY HAPPENED?

Write what you saw, then what you think caused it, separately. Missed sessions and a program that doesn't fit are different problems. The record tells you which question to ask.

HYPOTHETICAL EXAMPLE		How one line might read
OBSERVATION I finished two of three planned sessions most weeks.	EVIDENCE I HAVE My calendar and training log.	STILL NEED TO UNDERSTAND Whether a different time slot would actually hold.

OBSERVATION	EVIDENCE I HAVE	WHAT I STILL NEED TO UNDERSTAND

Travel, work, sleep and stress belong here as context. They don't prove why something happened. Keep personal health notes private.

05 / ONE NEXT STEP

PICK ONE THING TO DO NEXT.

Use the first line that fits you. It's a guide for the conversation, not a diagnosis.

01	MY GOAL IS UNCLEAR	Rewrite it, and agree on what you'll watch.
02	THE ROUTINE DOESN'T FIT MY WEEK	Rework the schedule around a session length you can keep.
03	I DON'T GET HOW IT PROGRESSES	Ask for the rule, and one example of it.
04	I FOLLOWED IT. THE TREND ISN'T THERE.	Bring your log to a program review.
05	A HEALTH CONCERN IS IN THE WAY	Get the right professional's input before making a training call.

MY NEXT ACTION

WHO CAN HELP

WHEN I'LL DO IT

HOW I'LL CHECK IT WORKED

06 / NEXT REVIEW

RUN IT AGAIN IN FIVE LINES.

Keep this page with your log. Each review makes the next conversation more specific.

01	MY GOAL IS
02	THE WORK I COMPLETED WAS
03	WHAT I NOTICED
04	MY NEXT CHANGE OR QUESTION
05	I'LL REVIEW IT USING

KEEP THIS WITH YOUR LOG.

The next review starts where this one ended.

NOTES FROM THE FLOOR

WANT MORE LIKE THIS?

My newsletter: what I'm testing with clients and coaches, plus new articles when they go up. You don't need to buy anything to keep learning.

JRSTRENGTHANDFITNESS.COM/NEWSLETTER

A reflection tool, not a diagnosis, exercise prescription or clearance to train. © 2026 JR Strength and Fitness LLC.